
Better probability estimates do not necessarily produce different or better screening decisions.